Three Core & Main Associates Add Design-Build National Certification

Design-build experts assist in the integration of design and construction services

ST. LOUIS, April 27, 2021—Core & Main LP, a leading distributor of waterworks and fire protection infrastructure products in the United States, is growing its in-house team of design-build experts. Core & Main associates Chris Swanson, Aaron Bauer and Pat May recently earned designation as nationally certified Associate Design-Build Professionals™ by the Design Build Institute of America \(DBIA\). With three additions, Core & Main has 12 certified DBIA team members, including one full Certified Design-Build Professional™.

Design-build experts assist customers in understanding the best practices of design build to realize the full value of their construction project. DBIA certification is the nation's only measurable standard of a professional's individual knowledge of Design-Build Done Right™ principles that are vital to successful project delivery. By completing these requirements, which touch on all aspects of design-build, certified professionals earn the right to display "Assoc. DBIA" after their names, identifying them to design-build end-users and the industry at large as experienced design and construction professionals with a firm understanding of design-build project delivery.

Through the certification process, professionals learn the value of design-build project delivery and the effective integration of design and construction services to ensure success for all parties involved in a project, including owners and design and construction practitioners.

Core & Main is committed to design-build principles. As an advisor member of the Water Design-Build Council, we support North America's leading education resource for best practices in water design-build delivery.
